DUST, FLYING HIGH IN SKY, MOVES ACROSS STATE

High-flying dust gave much of Nebraska a semi-yellowish haze Friday. However, things are looking up weather-wise with good weather indicated for the start of the week end. Skies are expected to be generally fair Saturday and cooler weather is on tap for the southeast. Highs are due to range into the upper 70s. Lincoln's 92 was the high state reading Friday. The Weather Bureau said the dust was blown in from western Nebraska and Kansas where dust storms occurred earlier. The dust stayed until the wind shifted westerly, shoving the grey stuff across the state. Kimball Countians said the storm was the worst they had seen in June. The dust was mostly gone Friday night. At Grand Island, the dusty air moved out about noon Friday after cooler air moved in. Skies cleared about 1:30 p.m. Friday at Norfolk after the dust moved in during the night. Visibility was cut to three miles. In Lincoln, there was considerable dust in the air late Friday afternoon. Visibility was reduced from 6 miles to 5 miles in two hours time.

—'Windfall' Profits—
40 Million Reaped In Housing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole Friday named 200 corporations as having reaped nearly 40 million dollars in "windfall" profits on 70 apartment projects. He announced the list is being sent to the Justice Department. An investigation of Federal Housing Administration abuses shows beyond question, FHA announced, that some of the apartment promoters were "aided and guided by former top FHA officials in the windfall practices." The Justice Department was asked to take "such civil or criminal proceedings" as might be indicated by the circumstances of each case. Cole made public the list developed by his deputy, William F. McKenna, who is in charge of the investigation FHA began last April 12. Sens. Byrd (D-Va.) and Capehart (R-Ind.), among others, have charged that serious abuses occurred under FHA's "Section 608" program to provide post-war housing for middle income families. Investigation has shown that many of the promoters obtained FHA-insured loans much larger than the actual cost of the apartment projects, and distributed the difference to stockholders as windfalls. Many subsequently closed out the corporations. The list released Friday covers projects in 18 states and the District of Columbia. The corporations put $4,141,390 of their own money into the developments and obtained FHA-insured mortgage loans totalling $277,593,500.

U.S. To Fly Men From Indo-China

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Air Force announced Friday night that it will evacuate about 1,000 wounded French troops from non-combat areas in Indo-China. They will be taken to France via the United States. The decision to give a hand to the hard-pressed French was made at the request of the French government, the Air Force said, and the air movement will begin late next week. Air Force Secretary Harry T. Abbott said the wounded men will be flown from Indo-China across the Pacific to the United States, thence to France. The air evacuation will be conducted by the Far East Air Forces using troop carrier aircraft to the United States. The remainder of the flight to France will be operated by the Military Air Transport Service. The Air Force said that details about the points where the wounded men will be picked up and the itinerary of the evacuation flights will be announced later.

Jet Plows Into Navy School; 5 Killed, 5 Hurt

MEMPHIS (AP)—A powerful jet plane plowed through a Memphis Naval Air Station Aviation Mechanics School like a flaming meteor Friday. Five persons died in the furious fire fed by fuel splashed down the runway, then swerved into a deadly dive from an altitude of about 300 feet. It flashed by a water tower, about 1,000 yards off the runway, sliced the top off a low aluminum "hut," then ripped through the two-story gray-shingle school. The dead included the pilot and a woman civilian employee. The flier was identified as Lt. Robert Woolverton, 33, a six-plane ace in World War II, stationed at Dallas as a Navy test pilot. His next of kin was listed as his mother, Mrs. Sadie Woolverton of Abilene, Kas. The civilian secretary was listed as Mrs. Elaine House Branch, Millington, Tenn., wife of a retired Navy chief. The other dead, all chief petty officers, were: George F. Hurlburt, 36, Portland, Ore.; Roland Francis Brousseau, 39, Manchester, N. H.; and George Wright Woodruff, 42, San Francisco. The Navy cancelled its air show, part of the station's three-day Navy festival, an annual open house affair at the sprawling base 15 miles north of here. Vice Admiral A. K. Dogle, chief of Naval air training at Pensacola, Fla., here for the festival, convened a board of inquiry to determine the cause of the accident. Crowds expected for the air show had just begun to trickle onto the station when the crash occurred. The area was quickly blocked off. The pilot had taken the Outlass, a swept-wing, superonic twin jet faster than the speed of sound, up for practice in close formation flying. The plane and two others of its type were flown here Thursday for the show. The school was destroyed by fire. Nearby structures were damaged by the intense heat. Three firemen were hospitalized for treatment of burns and smoke injury.

Car Strikes Cozad Tot, Killing Him

COZAD, Neb. (AP)—Four-year-old Pancho Rangel was killed Friday night when he was struck by a car at a Highway 30 intersection in Cozad. Officer Alfred Budd said he had warned the lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cistol Rangel, Friday afternoon to be careful when crossing the highway. Pancho was the third child to be killed within a 30 foot area on the highway within the last four years. Driver of the car, Henry Schneider Jr., 25, Cozad, said he did not see the child. Acting Coroner Stanley Deines said there probably would be an inquest Saturday. The boy's death was the 124th traffic fatality this year in Nebraska. A year ago there had been 100 traffic deaths for the year.

3 Hurt Seriously In Geneva Crash

GENEVA, Neb. (AP)—Three members of a Lexington, Neb., family were injured Friday night when their car was struck by a train at a crossing about 7 miles south of here on Highway 74. Hospitalized at Geneva were Fonda Fisher, 31, his wife, Opal, 26, and their son, about 10. Sheriff Albert Tobias said Fisher suffered an apparent concussion, chest injuries and shock. His wife has a fracture of the left thigh, crushed chest and broken jaw and had some teeth knocked out. The boy received a compound fracture of the left thigh. Sheriff Tobias said Fisher apparently did not see the Burlington local train until too late to stop. V. J. Streka of Wymore was engineer of the train, which operates between Hebron and Wymore.

27th & Van Dorn Home Christian Fellowship Office

The assembly of the Nebraska Christian Fellowship unanimously voted to amend its constitution to provide for the purchase of a $55,000 office and residence home on the southeast corner of 27th and Van Dorn. It is expected that the contract to buy the property will be signed Saturday. It was announced by Joseph A. Houston, president. The building, to be known as the Nebraska Christian Fellowship Home, will contain offices and also be a residence for staff families. The real estate firm handling the transaction declined Friday night to name the party selling the home. (Another story on the Nebraska Christian Fellowship appears on Page 6.)

Robert Young Wins Fight For Control Of N.Y. Central Line

White And Directors Unseated

NEW YORK, (AP)—Robert R. Young has won his first fight for control of the mighty New York Central Railroad by a margin of 1,070,000 shares. It was learned from an authoritative source which declined to be identified.

Young Young's slate of 14 men and a woman to Central's Board of Directors, the source disclosed unseating the old board headed by Central President William White.

Young thus ends 85 years of domination by the financial and family descendants of the last century's titans, Cornelius Vanderbilt and J. Pierpont Morgan.

Greatest Victory
The war for the Central was the biggest business struggle in a generation and the greatest victory Young ever scored in his career.

The 57-year old Texas-born financier began his attack by demanding Central's board chairmanship last February. When the Central board refused he launched a blistering attack against his old-time enemies—the "Wall St. bankers."

He never let up. He bought more stock, made more speeches and ran more newspaper advertisements. Young won running away. It was the achievement of a long-stated ambition by the white-thatched little man with the twinkling blue eyes—once known as "the daring young man of Wall Street."

Back in April when the proxy statements of each side were made his lead was already overwhelming.

Texas Millionaires
The slate of Young nominees owned or controlled 1,118,880 shares of the Central's 6,447,410 shares of outstanding common. This was 17.4 per cent.

The Central board owned or controlled only 106,122 shares of 1.6 per cent of the total. But 800,000 shares of the Young group's holdings belonged to the Texas millionaires Clint W. Murchison and Sid W. Richardson and the Central tried to bar these from being voted.

In this effort the Central lost every round—in the courts, before the Interstate Commerce commission and finally before the election commissioners at Albany, N. Y. where the stockholders meeting was held.

Young's margin of victory seems to have removed any threat that the Central's management might appeal once more to the courts, this time to upset the election inspectors' ruling which admitted the 800,000 shares to the stock tally.

Even if the block was ruled out, Young would still be ahead by 270,000 shares.

Familiar Territory
But these 800,000 shares, whose purchase was aided by Alleghany Corp., the holding company of which Young is board chairman, was the backbone of his triumph.

Beyond this, Young scored heavily on his old familiar territory—Wall St., where he swept further ahead in the big block of stock held in brokers' names on behalf of some 10,000 to 15,000 individual owners.

This stock totals about 2,750,000 shares, or 42 per cent of the grand total.

Young's plurality here was about 475,000 shares, according to the reliable source which disclosed the result. This margin included the 200,200 shares owned personally by Young and his old-time associate, Allan P. Kirby, president of Alleghany Corp.

Young was in New York Friday but left before the result was disclosed. He plans to spend the weekend at his estate in Newport, R.I.

White was believed to be in New York but could not be reached.

Also in New York was Alfred E. Perlman, Young's leading candidate for president to succeed White. Perlman, 51, is executive vice president of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad.

MOTHER OF 4 FOUND SLAIN; MAN, 23, HELD

CORDOVA, Alaska (INS)—A Redwood City, Calif., man who said he fatally stabbed a mother of four children—found with an open Bible under her lifeless hands—was held without bond in Cordova.

Deputy U.S. Marshal McEnery Edmonds said George Ingles, 23, called him, admitted the slaying, but declined to divulge any motive, saying:

"No one will ever know what actually happened."

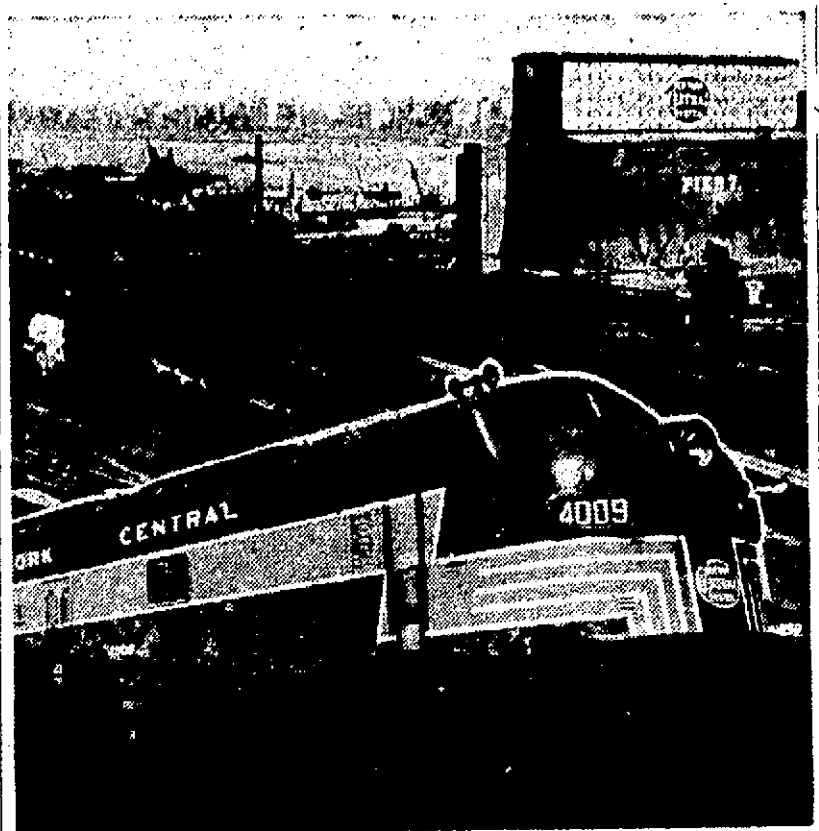

Ingles was arraigned after a coroner's jury returned a murder finding in the strange death of Mrs. Betty Tiedeman, 26, who was found fatally stabbed on a couch of her Cordova home.

Edmonds said she had been knifed twice in the back, once in the chest and once in the head.

A Bible, opened to the 29th Psalm, lay on her chest and her hands were crossed on the Holy book.

Mrs. Tiedeman's four children, all under 7, were in the house but were not harmed.

Edmonds said Mrs. Tiedeman and her estranged husband, August, had been on the verge of a reconciliation.

Harrison Wells, 62, Dies; Engineer Was Well Known Here

Mrs. Clayton F. Andrews has returned from Los Angeles where she was called by the death her only brother, Harrison A. Wells, 62. Mr. Wells, a government engineer, was a native of Stanton, Neb. and was well known in Lincoln.

While here some 18 years ago he was employed by the city to advise on the modernization of Lincoln's parking system. His experience came from many years of employment by the Los Angeles city street engineering department. He was with that department for 17 years.

Mr. Harris' death was attributed to a rare form of leukemia with which he was stricken while on government work on the island of Guam. He had also been associated with former Governor Dwight Griswold in engineering work in Greece, while Griswold was director of the American Aid program.

50 Handicapped Found May Jobs

Fifty physically handicapped men and women were placed in suitable employment during May, Paul M. Reid, state supervisor of the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, said Friday. He said they received such needed services as medical diagnosis and treatment, training, occupational equipment counseling and selected job placement in order to become self-supporting. "It is interesting to note," states Mr. Reid, "that at the time these people came to the attention of the department, only 11 were working." The jobs were either unsuitable or some rehabilitation service was necessary to keep them on the job.

Gov. Anderson Demurs

In the neighboring state of South Dakota Gov. Sigurd Anderson did not wait long to take issue with Secretary of the Interior McKay after the latter had announced that a group in the Eisenhower cabinet would review the Pick-Sloan plan for Missouri River development in the program of flood control, expanded irrigation and generation of power.

McKay had said in South Dakota that it was an open question if the Pick-Sloan plan is "the proper program today."

Gov. Anderson, a staunch Republican, was in sharp disagreement with the secretary of the interior with these words:

"Basically the Pick-Sloan plan is the proper program of basin development. There, of course, may be some modifications or changes that will come up from time to time, which is to be expected, but to say that there is an open question as to whether or not the program blue-printed several years ago is the proper program today carries a strong intimation by the secretary that he does not approve. I do not see how there can be a change of plan now with the program 20 to 25 per cent complete."

Secretary McKay could clear up this confusion by getting down to cases.

What is it that he has in mind?

If he does not like the policy of public power in the basin in connection with the construction of the big dams on the main stem, why not say so and let the storm break around his head.

Fl. Peck was completed years ago. Ft. Randall is 90 per cent finished. Garrison and Gavins Point are well along. Only Oahe, a key structure, is in the beginning stages and there the work has progressed to 15 per cent of completion, with millions expended.

If the people of the Missouri Basin are awake they will lose little time in letting Secretary McKay know that it is a trifle tardy to begin a new study of a plan now well along toward realization, a program of vital importance to the basin.

Nebraska's Mentally Ill

The most difficult problem confronting the Nebraska State Board of Control, in charge of the institutions housing state's wards, is direction and supervision of the institutions for the mentally ill.

That situation has improved greatly in recent years, thanks to provision for a long range building program which has relieved the three mental hospitals at Hastings, Norfolk, and Lincoln of the pressures created by overcrowding, lack of buildings to take care of patients awaiting admission, and in general a hopelessly obsolete physical plant. Thanks to new construction expanding the available facilities for care and treatment of the mentally ill, there has been notable progress in catching up with the backlog of those needing and awaiting care.

But provision for more ample, modern quarters has not solved the problem of the care of the mentally ill by any means. There have been repeated claims made that the institutions are under-staffed, staff members themselves underpaid. So earlier in the week it announced after a meeting between Gov. Crosby and the members of the Board of Control that there would be a revision of salaries. It was not to be an across the board increase although we assume that salary requirements will reflect a substantial increase in money needs. There is this to be said. In prudent spirit Nebraska never has been lavish in salary matters. It has kept a pretty close rein on the purse strings.

The issue raised is not limited solely to the question of financial remuneration, it would seem. Dr. Sandritter, who is superintendent at Ingleside at Hastings, and who has been most outspoken in his discussion of Nebraska's mental hospitals, leans heavily to the belief that by proper psychiatric care and treatment the state's financial burden in the care of the mentally ill could be stabilized or reduced possibly. He has expressed a great deal of confidence that through psychiatric treatment many patients now wards of the state could be cured and relieved. But that calls for more doctors, specialists; and if the qualifications are to be what they should it means more appealing salaries.

We assume that the Board of Control is giving increasing attention to this matter of cure of the mentally ill through adequate psychiatric treatment. The experience in other states, especially states where greater emphasis has been placed upon this approach, would provide the board with invaluable information.

Mental illness involves tragedy beyond words.

There is one field where Nebraskans, recognizing the state's responsibility for adequate care and treatment, will not begrudge the required expenditure.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

One of the most disturbing developments in Washington in these critical weeks of 1954 is the disposition both on the part of Congress and the Chief Executive to postpone decisions. At his press conference Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower furnished an excellent example. This despite the President's plea Thursday night for his legislative program.

At the press conference he talked about the reciprocal trading agreement program. No, he told newsmen, he has not given up his idea of a three-year extension of it. He would settle with this 83rd Congress, however, for a 12-months extension. Then, presumably, next year he intends to ask Congress for a three-year extension. Either the President is ducking a showdown, which might entail a defeat for him, or he is terribly naive. His difficulty with Congress over the reciprocal trading agreement program cannot be charged to Democratic opposition. The Democrats are committed to that program. They have supported it ever since Cordell Hull urged the American people to adopt it as a means of stimulating trade with other countries. The opposition to the reciprocal trading agreement program has come from Republicans—from the powerful conservative bloc in the Republican party which traditionally and consistently has favored a "high protective" tariff. It is right within his own party where Mr. Eisenhower has trouble, mounting trouble, with high tariff members becoming more and more conscious that the hour may be here to do away with a program they never have liked, a step Mr. Eisenhower knows could be most costly.

Now, Mr. Eisenhower may talk to his heart's content about the desirability of trading with our friends, but until he makes up his mind to pinpoint the Republican tariff bloc in Congress blocking him, it will continue to tie him in a dozen knots. He has a weapon which he could use to get the three-year extension which he says he wants, but for some reason he avoids using it.

It will be too late next year for the President to exert pressure upon his fellow Republicans as the price for his own support. He stands much less chance to win in 1955 than in 1954. Just now the fall elections are disrupting the President's legislative program far more than the President seems to realize. Where he and his secretary of agriculture insist upon a sliding scale of price supports for farm commodities, his party in Congress wants nothing of it and insists, so far as the House Agriculture Committee is concerned, upon a one-year extension of the present program, which means again postponement of decision. Nor did the President help himself with an unnecessary reference to "good or bad politics" in connection with the farm program. There is far more to the farm issue than politics.

On many vital matters, strangely and unbelievably the worst thing that could happen to Mr. Eisenhower is to increase Republican majorities in the two houses of Congress. His legislative program today is far behind the time table, a powerful group within his own party opposed to it. The President seems to forget that in Minnesota in 1952 for his major farm speech he said nothing about flexible support prices; on the contrary his words were interpreted as a solid endorsement of 90 per cent of parity. The Republican members of the House Agriculture committee know that. That is why they are standing pat.

Maury Maverick Was Man For The People

WASHINGTON — A great Texan died the other day. His grandfather, Maverick put his name on the "maverick" steer that jumps herds and wanders at will over the plains; and Maury Maverick, his grandson, was just as free, just as independent and just as fearless as either his grandfather or the steers on which he puts his name.

Maverick died an early death because he was always in the front line of every battle. He died an early political death because he took on the big power companies, the big racketeers—people who had plenty of money to defeat him for re-election.

And he died physically last week because he came out of World War I, his breast covered with ribbons and his body covered with wounds. A hole as big as his fist remained in his back. He was too far out in front in France as he was in politics.

Those who suffer from cancer probably don't know it, but it was Maury Maverick, a vigorous young congressman from Texas, who, in the New Deal days, pioneered the first government appropriation for cancer research. His legislation set up the cancer institute.

He campaigned for the Tennessee Valley, for slum clearance, back nearly 20 years ago when the going was tough. And he crusaded for 50,000 planes and 100,000 pilots three years before Pearl Harbor when people scoffed at such fantastic, unneeded goals.

And being out in the front line of political battle, the big interests of Texas knocked him off when he came up for re-election. After that he became mayor of San Antonio, and along the little muddy river that runs through the heart of that sprawling Spanish city, you will find today a great monument to Maury Maverick.

It doesn't bear his name. Later generations may forget that he ever had any connection with it. But Maury Maverick transformed the slums along the sluggish San Antonio river into a replica of an old Spanish village and one of the most beautiful spots in Texas.

Maury has been out of politics in these later years. He sat like Ty Cobb or Babe Ruth on the sidelines while Texas went Republican, while the reactionaries ate high-on-the-hog in Austin, while the men financed McCarthy in Washington. And he was discouraged. But when I saw him in San Antonio a few weeks ago he reported that a first glimmer of light was coming back to Texas. Just as that glimmer came, over the political horizon of the Texas plains Maury Maverick died.

STEVENSON SALT

Adlai Stevenson is as salty to talk to person-to-person as his political wisecracks make him out to be.

Interviewing him for television at New York's Savoy Plaza just after he spent a hectic morning at Columbia University's 200th anniversary, Adlai munched an orange, wished he could accompany ex-Sen Bill Benton on a yachting cruise, remarked that being under the glare of the TV cameras was a good way to lose weight.

When producer Nick Webster told him, "Keep your head in the same position because we've got it on the wall," Adlai remarked, "I've been wondering all day where my head was."

Webster referred, of course, to the shadow of Stevenson's head.

When Adlai met an assistant flaunting a red-and-orange necktie he wisecracked; "Looks like the Spanish armada." And when I started to say that Stevenson was an authority on government because his grandfather had been vice president of the United States, he remarked "Don't bring my grandfather in. I wasn't born then."

On the serious side, Stevenson discussed the important question of bipartisan foreign policy which he saw operate first-hand under Roosevelt.

TOO MANY DULLES

"The Republican party," he said, "has no unity on the subject of foreign affairs, and we sometimes wonder who the secretary of state might be."

Asked whether he referred to statements by Sen Knowland of California on foreign policy, Stevenson replied:

"And Vice President Nixon. I was going to say Secretary of State Knowland, Secretary of State Nixon, and Secretary of State Dulles, leaving some state of confusion. This is what I call foreign policy by the platoon system."

"I don't mean to be derisive about it," Stevenson continued. "But Secretary of State Dulles has a serious problem—which is to maintain the cordinality of public support and understanding of what our national policies are. And it's of infinite importance to all of us, whether we're Republicans or Democrats. That's of secondary concern. The main concern is that we have a common policy, that we know where we're going and that we support it as united people."

Stevenson also enumerated the many Republicans who worked under Roosevelt, including his own chief, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson; Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson; John J. McCloy; Robert Lovett and various other Republicans.

Asked whether these were some of the so-called "traitors" who operated the country for 20 years, Stevenson replied:

"They must have been. As long as the charge is all inclusive, it includes an awful lot of Republicans as well as Democrats. It would also include Gen Eisenhower, for he was serving at that time too."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey claims he is being doctored to death. He is getting honorary doctors' degrees at Pittsburgh, Williams, and Lehigh three days running.

Col. Otis K. Sadtler, whose name was in headlines when he warned the Pentagon on Dec. 19, 1941, that the Japs would attack in 24 hours, died last week heralded and unsung last week.

Sen Dirksen of Illinois considers it a compliment that two signs in Springfield, Ill., proclaim "Write Senator Dirksen." However, the compliment has raised hob with his secretarial force. He has 50,000 letters waiting to be answered.

When the McCarthy hearings are over, he says he will cater up with the Gomer Bailey of Denver, Colo., recently introduced to President Eisenhower as the "driver of the year" has driven trucks more than 1,000,000 miles—equal to 40 times around the earth's circumference—without a chargeable accident.

ARCH DONOVAN In Step With The Sower

In about a fortnight, the doors of opportunity will be closed to those willing to devote their energies to public service. Filing for the primary elections must be made before July 1.

Some offices appear to act as a magnet and find several anxious to serve. Contrary to public opinion that "this is the year of opportunity for the party" is represented by far fewer outstanding and well known candidates than the Republicans.

There have been no reports of leaders of either party slamming the door in the face of anyone desirous of public recognition.

The Sower notes that Nebraska is failing to follow the trend of most other states in naming women to high office, except by appointment.

It is one of the three states that have no women elected to seats in the Legislature and none have filed for the next session. Alabama and Oklahoma alone had all male legislative bodies after Sen. Fay Britt was named to fill a Nebraska vacancy.

There were 283 women seated at the last regular sessions of the various states, according to a survey made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Vermont led the list with 51. Connecticut 46 and New Hampshire 45. Even in Alaska, there were four women in the territorial legislature.

Five states have women for secretary of state and four women are state treasurers. Massachusetts has 51 women in judicial positions, California 33, Maryland 22, Louisiana 19, Connecticut 15 and 20 other states have from one to eight.

New York has 175 women in top level positions, New Jersey 103 and Connecticut 101.

Nebraska women will have to make up their minds quick if they hope to join the parade of states where women carry their share of the load of administering government. Mrs. Arabella Hanna set an example this week in seeking to become lieutenant governor.

Maybe the reluctance of women to seek public office is guided by the same reasoning given by many qualified and competent men when urged to file for state office. They contend "the laborer is worthy of his hire."

The antiquated system by which salaries of state employees are fixed is adding to confusion in government rather than improving administration. Parsimonious legislatures, maybe because they themselves are required to serve at financial loss, have built up this frankenstein.

In the past week, taxpayers have observed demands of psychiatrists that salaries three times as large as is now paid the board of control, responsible for administering 17 state institutions, be paid the doctors to compete with other states.

At least two city engineers of the state are paid higher salaries than the state engineer and numerous utilities districts have employees receiving more than their counterparts in state government.

Yet, the board of control and state engineer are responsible for the expenditure of the largest portion of state funds.

Several state departments have to pay employees more than the director and some county attorneys receive more than the attorney general.

"The Salvation of the State is Watchfulness in the Citizen," and if citizens continue only to watch and do nothing about the maladjustment of salaries as compared with responsibilities and duties they can expect that ere long it will be the incompetent that seeks office.

The Sower in daily observations of state government can detect no "mess" but one appears inevitable unless the citizens awake and pay some attention to the conditions developing.

A THOUGHT FOR THE SABBATH Stories Of Famous Hymns

The Anchored Soul

I am resting so sweetly in Jesus now,
I sail the wide sea no more;
The tempest may sweep o'er the wide,
stormy deep,
I am safe where the storms come no more.

I have anchored my soul in the haven of rest,
I sail the wide sea no more;
The tempest may sweep o'er the wild,
stormy deep,
But in Jesus I'm safe evermore.

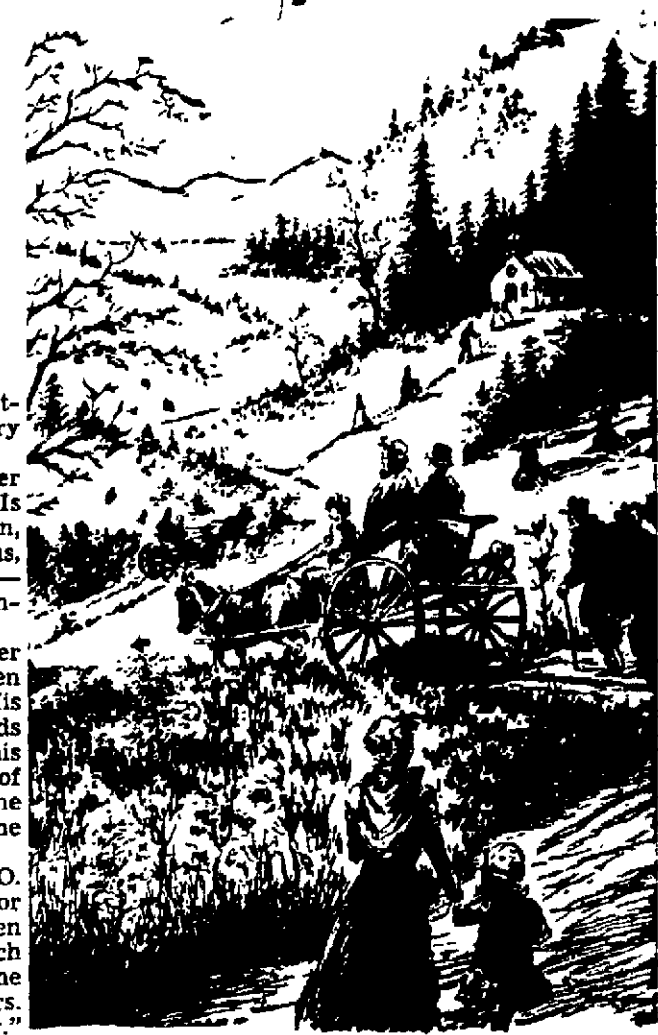

By HORACE B. POWELL

The messages of many of Christendom's best-loved hymns have been built about the imagery of the sea.

"Throw Out The Life-Line," "Let The Lower Lights be Burning," "Master, The Tempest is Raging," Charles H. Gabriel's beautiful hymn, "Sail On," and the Rev. Edward Hopper's "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me" all picture life as a wide sea—sometimes a very turbulent one—on which earth-dwelling pilgrims are sailing toward eternity.

The Rev. Mr. Hopper was serving as minister of the Church of Sea and Land in New York when he wrote "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," in 1871. His church overlooked New York harbor and thousands of seamen, entering and leaving port, attended his services each year. In order to reach the hearts of those men he wrote a hymn picturing Jesus as the Divine Pilot, guiding men and women through the perils of the sea of life.

We do not know that the Rev. William O. Cushing wrote "The Anchored Soul" especially for sailors, but it proved very popular with seamen who dropped in at evangelistic meetings at which it was sung. The Rev. Robert Lowry wrote the music. He also supplied the hymn-tune for Mrs. Hawks' matchless song, "I Need Thee Every Hour."

McCarthy And Nero

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Nero was criticized for playing a fiddle while Rome burned. Now, we have McCarthy. And God staging a comic opera in Washington when it would take but a spark to set the whole world afire.

Then there is our City Council, who as candidates stress their qualifications for office then refuse to make decisions without expert opinions. At expense to taxpayers when it was found necessary to raise taxes they brought in an outside organization which has raised the valuation of homes over 90 per cent. Many of these home owners are elderly people or widows who are living on pensions or fixed income and this large increase in taxes in addition to the already high cost of living will be really a burden for them. Considering the increase in revenue due to the many new homes in Lincoln, the writer can not see the necessity of doubling the valuation of real estate.

TAXPAYER

Editor's Note: The city, at some future date, might conceivably use the valuations returned by the "outside" organization referred to here but that organization was brought in and paid by the county, not the city.

Centennial Impressive

Los Angeles, Calif.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: A few days ago I received my copy of your Centennial number of The Sunday Journal and Star and was so impressed with the whole undertaking I decided I would write you and extend my warmest congratulations on the beautiful job of printing and the vast amount of research work necessary to get up such a complete coverage of events in the last one hundred years.

In addition to the compilation work necessary, the advertising display all along the line is nothing short of marvelous. The big metropolitan dailies here in L. A. have nothing on you from a mechanical standpoint. The color work on the first pages of the various sections is particularly pleasing and harmonious.

Let's Use The Siren

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Coventry, England, the first target of a massive air raid in World War II has, according to a recent news item, disbanded its civil defense committee as a protest against the complacent acceptance of the H-bomb as a defense of democracy.

Lincoln is not thinking of abandoning its civil defense, but it has facilities that could be lent on some occasions to other uses.

The siren blows Monday afternoons as a civil defense measure. Why could not the siren be used as a warning signal against tornadoes? The only defense we have now are warnings by radio. But most of us do not have the time to be constantly attentive to radios.

HERBERT JEHLE

DORIS FLEESON Maine Senator Gets Dose Of McCarthyism

WASHINGTON—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R) of Maine is undergoing her severest test of character in her long experience of life and politics.

Mrs. Smith is not just being opposed for renomination. That would be legal, constitutional, and perhaps desirable. What she is up against is an attack upon her pride and honor, the citadel of self from which she draws faith and courage to meet the hazards of life.

The attack does not even have the cynical justification that it might achieve victory. No observer gives Mrs. Smith's opponent a dog's chance.

To whom, then, was it worthwhile to torment her, to tamper with her self-confidence, to force her to expend her reserves of money, time and energy, to mar her pleasure in her distinguished achievements?

The television viewers now can spot him easily: Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

McCarthy found his weapon in the office of Sen. Charles Potter (R) of Michigan, a member of the McCarthy committee. Robert L. Jones of Biddeford, Maine, was a young veteran with a family of four when then Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine brought him to Washington to strengthen Brewster in an area where Jones had strong ties of blood and religion. But Brewster got beat anyway and he solicited a job for Jones from a luckier candidate, Potter.

The busy Potter let Jones stand in for him at various McCarthy Communist hunts. Nothing if not inventive, McCarthy seized the chance he had been seeking for four years, ever since Mrs. Smith came out with her famous declaration of conscience against "unproved charges hurled with reckless abandon."

McCarthy put his arm around Jones publicly, took him to Maine and praised him as "this young man is going places." He had tried and failed to find a stronger rival for Mrs. Smith. So he took the flattered novice to the high hill and showed him all the countries of the world.

The McCarthy patter falls readily from Jones' lips. The issue is "Americanism," which McCarthy exemplifies and Mrs. Smith apparently does not, according to Jones. Maine, he says, needs a "pro-American" senator. Off the record, he worries about the "health" of the woman senator, who is 55—a tactic no woman needs to have explained to her.

Read the sign posts, one by one. Which tell the certain way.

From little paths they grew. Time was the busy highways wide Were traveled by the few.

But one by one the footsteps made A line from place to place. Then signs were raised and pavements laid To serve man's swifter pace.

Thus, easily I travel on From town to town today Reading the sign posts, one by one.

Bell Denied Major Part Of Rate Hike Request

... Re-classification Brings Some Boosts

The state railway commission denied the major portion of the rate increase requested by the Northwestern Bell Telephone company in an application filed Jan. 19 and heard in March.

Telephone subscribers at Fremont and North Platte and in certain other communities will pay higher rates, however, as the result of re-classification of their exchanges because of growth in the number of users.

Fremont and North Platte, which have been in the 2,500-to-5,000 telephone class now move up into group "F," the 5,000-10,000 class. Present rate for one-party residence service in those cities is $4.20 per month.

The rate for similar service in the higher classification is $5 per month.

$126,000 Additional Income
The company had requested rate increases and changes which would have yielded an estimated $995,009 a year in additional revenue. The commission, however, allowed increases and changes which will bring in only about $126,000 a year in additional income.

Such a return upon investment would attract the capital required for plant additions and improvements, the commission added. The commission said that on a rate base of $33,157,936, which includes net book cost of plant and equipment, materials and supplies, plus an allowance for cash working capital, the current earnings would permit a return of 6.05 per cent. Without the allowance for working capital, the rate base would be $33,916,742, and the return would be 6.27 per cent.

On the company's claimed rate base of $35,635,849, the return would be 5.97 per cent. On a rate base of $47,868,640, figured on replacement cost of the property less depreciation reserve, and including materials and supplies and working capital, the return would be 4.44 per cent.

The commission said that if the company's projected figures had been used, the telephone users in effect would be paying a return to the company on some property in which no investment had yet been made.

Communities which will pay somewhat higher rates as a result of growth into a higher classification, besides Fremont and North Platte, include Sidney, Alliance, Ainsworth, Dakota City, Gordon, Minden, O'Neill, Tekamah, Valentine, Laurel, Rushville, Bristow, Butte, Creston, Decatur, Millard, Potter, Spencer and Axtell.

Arstad Says Board Failed Recognize Revenue Need

OMAHA (AP)—The Nebraska general manager for the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. said "we are extremely concerned that the State Railway Commission did not recognize our very real need for additional revenue."

The comment from L. O. Arstad came after the commission denied the major portion of a rate increase requested by the company in an application filed Jan. 19. Arstad's statement said:

"The amount we applied for averaged only 1 1/3 cents per day for residence telephones and only a little more for business service. 'The only increases allowed adjustments in rates in a few exchanges where, because growth in the number of telephones, present rates are lower than those in comparable sized exchanges.'"

"Until we have an opportunity for further study of the order," Arstad said, "We are unable to determine what action will be required to fulfill our responsibilities for the communications needs of Nebraska."

State's Receipts Of $8,904,536 In May Top Warrants

Cash receipts of the state in May amounted to $8,904,536 or slightly in excess of the $8,620,322 in warrants paid, Frank Heintze, state treasurer, reported.

Receipts to the general fund amounted to $3,345,350 and with expenditures of only $1,634,647 the fund increased to $5,692,083. Current revenue funds at the end of the month amounted to $28,291,887 with outstanding warrants for $2,200,394.

On June 1, the state had $14,500,000 invested in government securities and $18,852,258 deposited in banks. During the month the state invested $131,000 in government bonds for trust funds bringing the total of trust fund investments to $30,440,660.

Compensation For Snowstorm Injuries Upheld

The Supreme Court ruled that Arthur E. Anderson, salesman for the Conger Sales Co., wholesale grocery firm at Superior, was entitled to workmen's compensation as the result of injuries during a snowstorm in March, 1952.

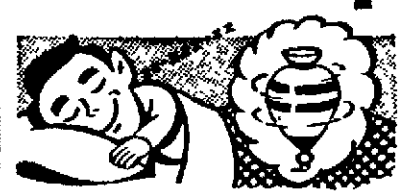

The high court modified the benefits allowed by the District Court, however.

The District Court allowed $28 for 21 1/2 weeks immediately following the accident, $6.50 for partial disability for another 27 1/2 weeks, and $321 for doctor bills.

The Supreme Court credited the company for the $559 allowed for the 21 1/2 weeks following the accident, because the company paid the employee's wages during that period. But for the period of partial disability, the high court increased the allowance from $6.50 per week to $10 a week.

The Supreme Court affirmed the $321 for doctor bills, and in addition allowed Anderson $250 for attorney fees in connection with the appeal.

'New Dedication Of Christian Church' Said Needed

A new strength and dedication by the Christian Church was the need pointed out by Dr. Cleveland Kleihauer at the second day's meeting of the Nebraska Christian Fellowship.

Dr. Kleihauer, pastor of the Hollywood - Beverly Christian Church in Hollywood, Calif., described the church of today as "the sleeping giant." That is, he said, the church has great power that it is not using.

"We need to put on the strength of urgency," Dr. Kleihauer said, "as great issues are at stake in democracy and religion. There needs to be a new awareness and alertness and a sense of personal responsibility."

The Christian Church, he said, must unite and put on the strengths of Christian realization and resources. There must be a crusading spirit, he said, and an affliction with aggressive good will.

Speaking also at the evening dinner, Dr. Kleihauer stressed the need for action on the part of Christians rather than "wishful thinking," he said, "we substitute responsibility with a gesture of good will. We substitute emotions for participation and admiration for sacrifice."

If the power of the church is used, he said, Communism can not survive. There is no barrier so great that throws itself against Communism as Protestantism, he said.

The women of the church were urged by Mrs. Alice Rust Langford, program co-ordinator of the department of Christian Women's Fellowship, United Christian Missionary Society, to take a more active part in church activities.

There were days, Mrs. Langford said, when women were practically forbidden to take part in the affairs of the church and even today the woman's place in church affairs has not been achieved. Women, she said, definitely have something to contribute in the way of policy making, administration and service on various church boards and agencies.

State Christian Group Lifts Debt Limit To Allow Fellowship House Purchase

The board of the Nebraska Christian Fellowship voted to lift the $2,000 limit on indebtedness for the purchase of property. This means, the board said, that plans can now go ahead for the purchase of property as a Fellowship House.

This house, to be located in Lincoln, will contain quarters for two Fellowship staff families and offices. Unsolicited contributions for the project have already hit $725, it was reported.

The $2,000 debt limit will now be confined to current program expenses only.

Has New Secretary
The board also announced that Emmett Haas, now state director of religious education for the Fellowship, will be promoted Sept. 1 to executive secretary. C. C. McCaw, present executive secretary, is retiring at that time.

No replacement for Haas has yet been found, the board said. The annual convention, being held at the Bethany Christian Church, will run through Sunday evening.

The board voted to seek $50,000 from churches in the state to finance a new church in southwest Omaha.

The Rev. Philip Dubbs of North Platte is chairman of the fund drive committee. Other members are Mrs. T. V. Hubbell, Lincoln; Marion Morton, Beatrice; Bill Payne, Omaha; and Mrs. Lois Taylor, Omaha. Trustees for the new church

Dakota Flood Control Plan Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army Engineers board approved Friday a $1,756,305 federal floor protection project for Mandan, N. D.

The board for rivers and harbors knocked out of the plan a provision for local interests to make a cash contribution of $11,155.

However, the North Dakota Highway Commission, Mandan and the Lower Heart River Water Conservation and Flood Control District are expected to carry out work expected to cost an additional $434,505.

The board's approval means the project will be submitted to Major Gen Samuel D. Sturgis, chief of engineers, who must pass on it before it can be submitted to Congress. Then Congress will decide whether to authorize the work, and to vote money to pay for it.

The plan calls for improvement of the channel of the Lower Heart River, the building of levees, raising of U. S. Highway 10 to serve as a levee, and the extension of Mandan's sewage system and installation of new pumps to improve the drainage of the area.

Fred J. Frederickson, Washington representative of the Greater North Dakota Association, said raising of a highway bridge would cost $214,160—expected to be borne by the State Highway Commission.

The city would pay for the drainage improvements, he said.

Charge Dismissed In Drunk-Driving Case Against Betts

OMAHA (AP)—Arthur M. Betts, 34, of Fremont, won dismissal of a drunk-driving charge in Traffic Court here when the prosecution's case came apart.

Judge Frank Nimtz waved the defendant out of court with this advisory: "It's all I can do under the circumstances, but you'd better stick to driving in the country."

The case arose when a car allegedly driven by Betts hit a fence here June 2. Testimony showed there were two witnesses to the accident, but Assistant Prosecutor Henry Winters had neither in court.

Investigating Officer Fred Spratlan had not seen the accident, so he could not say who was driving.

OMAHA (AP)—Arthur M. Betts, 34, of Fremont, won dismissal of a drunk-driving charge in Traffic Court here when the prosecution's case came apart.

Judge Frank Nimtz waved the defendant out of court with this advisory: "It's all I can do under the circumstances, but you'd better stick to driving in the country."

The case arose when a car allegedly driven by Betts hit a fence here June 2. Testimony showed there were two witnesses to the accident, but Assistant Prosecutor Henry Winters had neither in court.

Investigating Officer Fred Spratlan had not seen the accident, so he could not say who was driving.

FOA Chief Stassen Brands McCarthy 'Evil,' Charges 'Reckless'

WASHINGTON (INS) — Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen hurled another blast Friday night at Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy branding him as "evil and his charges as "reckless."

Stassen took issue with McCarthy's remarks at Friday's session of the Army-McCarthy hearings in which the Wisconsin Republican said Stassen's agency has a "new protective device" to keep information from Congress.

The FOA chief declared in a statement that "McCarthy's reckless charges of today relative to an FOA manual order outlining simple government procedures are another example of his attempt to divert attention from his own exposure through false statements about others."

To keep the record straight, asserted Stassen, "President Eisenhower's executive order 10501 issued last year required a down grading and declassification of government documents that makes it possible for American citizens to know more, not less, about what their government is doing."

'More Information'

He said it "prevents the misuse of classification which might hamper the freedom of information so vital to the preservation of our form of government."

"The FOA manual order which Sen. McCarthy referred to was issued back in March to implement the President's orders for more information to the public."

"It is a document that is not classified in any way and over 5,000 copies of it have been distributed throughout Washington and overseas and to other U. S. government agencies."

'Dangerous Trend'

"It limits the protection of information to necessary situations and facilitates the policy of more information to the public. It specifically states 'care should be exercised whenever the designation "official use only" is utilized to avoid improper and unnecessary use of this protective device."

McCarthy said the notation "for official use only" on FOA data means that such material cannot go outside that agency. He called this "an indication of a most dangerous trend," and said "if it continues it will mean that Congress will be operating completely in the dark."

Stassen, however, said that "McCarthy is only angry because he did not have any sources for illegal leaks within the loyal and efficient FOA organization and cannot practice his maliciousness here."

He added: "The FOA organization is effectively carrying out the policies of the President and the Congress for the good of America and is shunning the evil of McCarthy."

McCarthy and Stassen have long been at odds on the question of giving American aid to nations doing business with Communist China and other areas behind the Iron Curtain.

The Wisconsin Republican contends that all such aid should be immediately cut off. Stassen maintains, however, that trade in non-strategic materials does not help the Red plan of conquest.

Bee Swarm On Auto Finds More Suitable Home

C. A. McGuire of 3714 So. 14th (left) holds a honey comb swarming with bees that he had just removed Friday afternoon from the rear end of a parked auto in downtown Lincoln. This was the second time this year that swarming bees have been so removed by McGuire, who theorized that "perhaps the bees are attracted by the hollowiness of a car trunk, which could make a bee hive." Looking on is A. D. Bietz of 3930 Sheridan. (Star Staff Photo.)

Kimball Is Studied For Drought Aid

Gov. Robert Crosby said Friday that he is asking the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee to investigate and report on whether he should request that Kimball County be included in the drought distress area.

The governor said that he had been informed that many wheat farmers in the county do not know where they will be able to get seed for fall planting. He said that in addition to drought loss a large acreage of wheat had been destroyed by hail.

While attending a meeting of school land lease holders in Kimball on Saturday, the governor said he would attempt to make a personal investigation of conditions.

State ASC headquarters here report that they have been advised by Kimball County Chairman Peter Bourlier that only about 10,000 acres of wheat will be harvested out of an expected 185,000 acres.

Three counties in Southwest Nebraska have been included in the federal government's wind erosion relief campaign.

Kimball County Agent, C. I. Walters, told The Star that the county's troubles started about one year ago.

"On July 2, last year, hail took a tremendous area," he said. "The storm 10 to 15 miles wide, came across from northwest to southeast. It took better than half of the wheat which was good at that time. There was about $4 million loss."

Walters explained that the hail produced conditions in which what mosaic thrived. The mosaic was abundant in the volunteer wheat in the hail-damaged fields. It then blew into the new wheat when it came up last fall, killing a large part of the crop.

He said this trouble was followed by a severe infestation of the pale western cutworm which this spring killed lots of wheat, oats and barley. The spring grain crops, in many places, had been planted where the wheat had been killed out in the fall.

Further complications were caused by dry weather throughout the fall, winter and early spring. There has also been root rot in and out of the mosaic area.

The crowning blow to the wheat crop in the county came last week. Walters said they did have some good wheat in the northeast corner near Dix, in the northwest corner near Bushnell and southwest corner.

The hail storm "took the little dab of wheat we did have," Walters said. It varied from five to seven miles wide, traveling across the county from southwest to northeast, and hit practically all the wheat in its path.

Walters said about three million bushels is a normal wheat crop for the county.

"If we get 250,000 this year, we will be fortunate," he said.

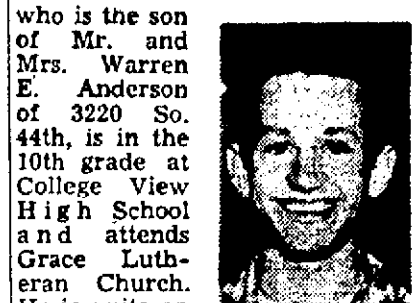

Crosby Names Senate Race Campaign Aids

Gov. Robert Crosby Friday announced that he will again have three co-chairmen in Douglas County in his campaign for the U. S. Senate Republican nomination.

Two who aided him in his race for the governorship were renamed, Sam Reynolds and Mrs. Martin E. Loft. The third member will be Peter Marchetti.

The governor said that he plans to name a chairman later to direct his campaign in Lincoln.

The customers on Route 728 which lies between Prescott, 48th street and the city limits are indeed fortunate to have Bob Anderson as their Star carrier. Bob, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Anderson of 3220 So. 44th, is in the 10th grade at College View High School and attends Grace Lutheran Church.

He is quite an athlete besides being an outstanding businessman. Last year Bob participated in sports at College View High as third string guard on the football team, as forward on the reserve basketball team, and as a miler on the track team. This summer he is playing in the outfield for the College View Midget baseball team.

Bob's hobby is tinkering with automobile motors but he likes to hunt and wish as well. For hunting he often goes to Shickley to bag pheasants with his own 12 gauge shotgun. Bob considers the Blue and the Platte Rivers as his favorite fishing spots. During the summer months he earns extra money by caring for lawns around the city.

With his profit of $15 every four weeks Bob buys his own clothes and is saving for a car. Bob's initiative and thoughtfulness will certainly enable him to have a car soon. Someday Bob would like to own a prosperous farm or ranch either in Southern California or in Arizona. If determination and reliability mean anything Bob should have one of the finest farms or ranches in the business.

Bob feels that his newspaper business has taught him the value of money as well as the proper way to handle it. He has also learned to appreciate the results of his efforts and has made many new friends that have enriched his life more than ever.

Boys State Legislators Wax Hot On Bills

Debate was hot in the Cornhusker Boys State Legislature before the youthful senators advanced out of committee by only the needed 22 votes a proposed constitutional amendment enfranchising 18-year-olds with voting right.

Final test on the proposed amendment—which requires 26 votes to pass, rather than a 22 majority—will come Saturday morning.

Amendment proponents said "If 18-year-olds are old enough to fight, they're old enough to vote." Opponents insisted that 18-year-olds are "lacking in the mature judgment needed to shoulder the responsibilities of citizenship."

Voting Machine
The Boys' State lawmakers will use the voting machine in the Legislative Chambers at the Statehouse in recording their vote on this legislative bill and others.

Another measure up for vote is LB 1, relating to the reorganization of school districts. It has been amended in committee.

Also ready for a voting test are two resolutions. One provides for a non-political, expert five-member commission to study the value of reorganizing the state's tax structure; the other for a five member commission, appointed by the governor, to make a comprehensive study of highway conditions.

In addition to a general assembly and legislative session at 11 a.m., the Boy Staters will tour the Statehouse beginning at 8:30 a.m. During this time, Boys'

State officials will meet their counterparts in state government and observe their offices.

At a noon luncheon in the Student Union, the close of the 14th annual Boys State will be marked by the awarding of trophies and diplomas, and addresses by Boys State Gov. Bruce Fleming of Omaha and by John E. Curtiss on behalf of the sponsoring American Legion.

Luncheon Is Farewell Courtesy

Among the farewell courtesies for Mrs. Kenneth Ludlow who, with Mr. Ludlow and their two daughters soon will be calling Omaha home, was the luncheon for which Mrs.

John Bottorff was hostess on Friday at Hillcrest club. A guest eightsome was invited for the luncheon and an afternoon of bridge.

right, are Mrs. A. L. Holm, Mrs. Howard Lynch, Mrs. Ralph Tyler, Jr., Mrs. Bottorff, Mrs. Waldo Winter, Mrs. A. E. Sweetmab, Mrs. Tom Dworak—and the honoree, Mrs. Ludlow.

WE RAN out of space the other morning before we had made even a dent on the week-end courtesies for Miss Shirley Sides, whose marriage to Thomas Bowman of Denver will be solemnized next Saturday evening—June 19.

But before we talk about the parties we think you should know that Mr. Bowman arrives this afternoon from Denver, and will, of course, be sharing most of the week-end and early week's courtesies.

THIS morning Miss Sides is the incentive for a coffee at the home of Mrs. Hiram Hilton, for which Mrs. Hilton and Mrs. Robert J. Ferguson are hostesses. The soon-to-be bride will be presented with a handkerchief shower.

ON SATURDAY evening Miss Sides and her fiancé are to be honored when Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kimball and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Cartmell, will entertain at a 6 o'clock to 8 o'clock party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kimball.

WE HEAR that Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lentz are coming from Beatrice on Sunday to be host and hostess at an early picnic, complimenting Miss Sides and Mr. Bowman.

And on Sunday evening Miss Sides and Mr. Bowman will share honors when Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Junge and Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Volz are supper hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Junge. The guest list will include only members of the families.

TOOK A quick look at our little red book to find that Mrs. C. Myron Loomis and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Moulton were hostesses at dinner on Wednesday evening at the University club when they honored June bride Shirley Sides, and Mrs. Harrison Ward Jr. (Sara Devoe). Mrs. Ward leaves soon to join Lt. Ward who is stationed with the air force in Japan.

JUST learned that the first mixed foursome of the season is planned for Sunday at the Lincoln Country Club,

The longest drive on No. 9—the closest to the cug on No. 5—and a putting contest will be included in the afternoon's events.

SOMEONE told us that Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shaw, their daughter, Leslie, and their son, Gregory, would be arriving home one day soon from a holiday at the Broadmoor, Colorado Springs.

Visitor From Ohio

Mrs. Lowell Graham of Cincinnati, O., formerly of Lincoln, arrived a few days ago with Mr. Graham to spend this week in Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Graham, who are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Weston, came to attend the commencement ceremonies at the University of Nebraska from where their son was graduated last, Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Weston honored the visitors when they entertained a small group of their friends at their home on Thursday evening.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Graham was an honoree when Mrs. E. R. Priel was hostess at a dessert supper and bridge party at her home.

French Speculate On Laniel 'Successor'

Crucial Vote Slated Today

PARIS, France (INS)—Premier Joseph Laniel strove desperately Friday night to stave off what most observers predicted as certain defeat in Saturday's crucial vote of confidence in the French National Assembly.

Despite the fear that the fall of the Laniel government would precipitate a long political crisis and hasten the end of the Geneva conference, many deputies, calling the result of the assembly vote a foregone conclusion, began speculating on a "successor" to Laniel.

Laniel, an Independent Republican, became Premier on June 30, 1933. In three confidence votes since that time his parliamentary majority has dwindled. Last night he squeaked through by only two votes.

The Premier was not conceding defeat Friday night. He continued his round-the-clock conferences with leading deputies, aiming for the simple majority he will need with the 627 deputies vote Saturday morning.

May Save Him
The Geneva conference may be the cause of Laniel's fall, or paradoxically, it may save him. For many diplomats have warned that should Laniel be compelled to resign, the Indo-China negotiations at Geneva would collapse.

Parties opposing Laniel—and some of his own ministers—have blasted him for not "being conciliatory enough" at Geneva. But none of his antagonists have come up with an Indo-China plan which would be acceptable to an assembly majority. Thus, Laniel may be retained, almost by default.

But this was only one possibility, more probably, according to parliamentary observers, enough deputies would risk a long crisis to vote against the Laniel administration.

Friday, according to the French Constitution, was the "day of reflection" the deputies must have before voting on a motion of confidence.

Speculations
For many, however, it was a day of speculation. Several legislators openly discussed the names of men most likely to be asked to succeed Laniel.

Pierre Mendes-Franco, the radical Socialist most often mentioned earlier this week, seemed to many to have disqualified himself. Mendes-Franco implied strongly Wednesday night that only the return of the powerful Socialists—104 deputies—to participation in a coalition government would induce him to accept the prime ministry.

Laniel's foreign minister, Georges Bidault, also was mentioned, but it has been Bidault's statements at Geneva that have provoked the ire of many deputies. Former Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, a popular Republican like Bidault, also has been suggested to be France's 12th postwar premier.

And there was some support Friday night for Laniel's predecessor, Rene Mayer, and for radical Socialists (moderates) Edgar Faure, Andre Marzle and Andre Morice.

Dr. Couchman Named NWU Library Head

Dr. Gordon W. Couchman, 42, has been named as head librarian and professor of library sciences at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Dr. Couchman, professor of English and chairman of the English department at Moravian College for Women in Bethlehem, Pa., will assume his new duties Aug. 1.

A native of Earlville, Ia., he was graduated from high school in Des Moines. He received his A.B. from the State University of Iowa in 1938, B.S. in library science in 1944 and master's in English in 1945 from Columbia University, and Ph.D. in English from the University of Pennsylvania in 1952.

He was chairman of the workshop on the organization and administration of the freshman course at the College Conference on Composition and Communications in 1952.

Dr. Couchman has been an active member of PTA and has served on school boards, judged essay contests and participated in regional education conferences. His hobbies are chess, music, hiking and the theater.

Dr. and Mrs. Couchman have two children, Charlotte, 5, and Jeffrey, four months.

CARPENTER

Omahan Is Honored By Appointment ... Aid To Dulles

OMAHA (P)—Isaac W. Carpenter of Omaha, who was nominated Friday by President Eisenhower to be an assistant secretary of State, plans "to rely on actions, not words," in his new post.

Carpenter, 61, nominated as assistant secretary of state for personnel and administration, is chairman of the board of the Carpenter Paper Co. He is a native Omahan.

Carpenter was "very hesitant to comment now" on his plans for the position, adding "I believe firmly that it is not what you say, but what you do that counts."

He said he was "greatly honored by this appointment," and very enthusiastic about the opportunity to work as a member of Secretary Dulles' team. I admire and respect him for all of his accomplishments," he added, "and it will be a great privilege to serve under him."

Carpenter plans to fly to Washington Monday and expects to get a briefing Tuesday. He's eager to start work.

Although Carpenter said he was unfamiliar with the details of his job, he feels his lifelong experience in operations, administration and personnel matters should be of value.

Carpenter will succeed Edward T. Wailes, a foreign service officer, whose resignation was announced by the White House.

Carpenter was graduated from Dartmouth College, attended the Harvard School of Business Administration and is a veteran of World War I.

He would be the second Nebraskan to become an assistant secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration. Samuel C. Waugh, Lincoln banker, has been assistant secretary of state for economic affairs for about a year.

Petition Proposes Chadron Change In Government

CHADRON, Neb. (P)—City Attorney Bevin Bump is studying the legality of a petition calling for abandonment of the city manager form of government here.

The petition, filed with city Clerk Mildred Carlson, bore signatures of 221 electors, and asked that the question be settled by a vote.

The city council, upon receiving the petition, referred it to Bump. There was some speculation as to whether it was legally valid.

County Dissolves School District 141

Lancaster County School District No. 141 has been dissolved with three sections of land going each to Districts 72 and 74.

County Superintendent Glenn Turner said the action places the dissolved district back in the original districts.

Dissolution was mandatory under law because no one from the district was enrolled in a public school during the 1953-54 school year.

Only person present at the superintendent's hearing was William J. Weber, who had been a school board member in the district for over 40 years, serving as either president or secretary during that time.

His father was one of the original board members when the district was organized on Feb. 19, 1908.

"No one attended a hearing changing the boundaries of District No. 132 and 150 by the detachment of a section which was added to 132, the Panama district."

Cyclist Is Injured In Crash With Car

Eddie Allerton, 29, of 6428 Lexington, is reported in fair to good condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital after suffering injuries in a motorcycle-car accident at the entrance to Bethany Park on No. 60th.

He suffered a possible back injury, broken ribs on his right side, and bruises to his right knee, left elbow and forehead.

Allerton's motorcycle collided with the right rear fender of a car driven by Florence Bute, 53, of Aurora, who was turning into Bethany Park from the north when the accident occurred. Allerton was driving north.

Officers investigating the accident said Allerton's motor skidded 76 feet before the accident.

Omahans Get Fine For Petit Larceny

Eugene Leslie Wilson, 25, and Jerome Lee Myers, 20 both of Omaha, were each fined $50 in Lancaster County Court on a petit larceny charge.

Both had pleaded guilty earlier to separate complaints charging the theft of a $29-valued radio from Hoffman Sundries at 13th and South, on June 7.

Adult Probation Officer George Meyers told the court that the pair had no previous criminal record.

Acting County Judge Ralph Slocum allowed credit on their fines for jail time from June 7.

City Ballot Proposals:

Storm Sewer Bonds Said 'Most Important In Many Years'

(Editor's Note: The following is the ninth and final article in a series by Star City Hall Reporter Bill Dobler analyzing the proposals which will face Lincoln voters in the June 15 election. Clip and save this article to help decide how you want to vote on this proposition.)

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Described by city officials as the most important step proposed for Lincoln in many years, the $3.5 million storm sewer and flood relief bond issue will be placed before voters at the special June 15 election.

In attempting to present this proposal to various groups, Mayor Clark Jeary has emphasized that, unlike most issues, this one will not mean an increase in taxes. It is contemplated that the issue will be paid off in 20 years with annual payments on interest and principle totaling about $200,000.

Thus, the annual payments

Crime Goes To Church

CAMDEN, Ark. (P)—Between $300 and $400 was stolen from the choir rooms of the First Baptist and First Methodist churches here while choir members sang for Sunday morning services. Police said the thieves broke open the door of the Baptist church and used a skeleton key to unlock the Methodist choir room door. Nine bill-folds were taken.

would be the same as the amount now being levied every year in the general fund for storm sewers. The big advantage, Jeary points out, is the fact that all the city's storm sewer needs could be cleaned up in three years if the bond issue is approved while the present system might never have an end.

In presenting this proposal, Jeary has emphasized that the project is no cure all for time to time. Additional sewer needs will arise in the future, he cautions, and will have to be dealt with as they come along.

Wording Of Proposed Amendment

"Notwithstanding any existing provisions in this charter to the contrary and in addition to the power and authority elsewhere in this charter provided, the City Council, for the purpose of constructing additions to, extensions of, improvements or betterments to the storm sewer system of said city, is hereby authorized to borrow money and pledge the credit and property of the city upon its negotiable bonds, in an amount not to exceed $3,500,000 without further consent of the voters. Said bonds shall mature serially beginning one year after date and continuing thereafter for not to exceed thirty years. In such annual installments as the City Council shall determine, said bonds to bear interest at a rate not to exceed three per cent per annum, payable semiannually, and to be redeemable with or without premium, at the option of the city, at any time after five years from their date, and the City Council shall annually provide for the levy of a tax upon all taxable property located in said city sufficient to pay the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon as the same mature, which tax shall be in excess of and in addition to all other taxes now or hereafter authorized to be levied by said city."

While the mill levy or taxes would remain the same with or without the bond issue, there are other city expenses that could go either up or down.

A tentative program of some 60 sewer districts has been set up to show the need for the bond issue. This program, however, is flexible and will be changed, Jeary said, according to the needs of the city as work progresses.

The $3.5 million issue contains $2,939,000 for storm sewers, $361,000 for work on Antelope Creek and $200,000 for work on Dead Man's Run.

The funds for creek work are primarily for construction of new city bridges over the waterways. These are all bridges which in the past have been a contributing factor to floods in the two drainage areas, according to City Engineer D. L. Erickson.

The funds, he said, are not planned for dam work. The Soil Conservation Service and the Army Corp of Engineers, Erickson said, have agreed on the need for a dam in the upper reaches of Antelope Creek so that project will probably be undertaken by the federal government.

Voters who favor the $3.5 million bond issue should vote for the proposed charter amendment. Those opposed to the issue should vote against the amendment.

Santee Short At 4:00.6; O'Brien Long At 60-10

Parry O'Brien

LOS ANGELES (AP) — America's master of the mile, Wes Santee, defeated Josy Barthel, the Olympic champion in 4:00.7 and hefty Parry O'Brien again made a mockery of the 60-foot mark in shot put, heaving the ball to a new 60-foot 10-inch world record, in the AAU district meet Friday night.

Santee won by an estimated 50 yards and did it on a slow track with the third fastest time in history.

O'Brien poked marked the shot put with 60-foot-plus throws, and beat his accepted world record of 59-2 1/4 as well as his 60-5 1/4 set a month ago.

While O'Brien was tossing past the world record promiscuously, Santee fell just a tenth of a second short of his best mark.

Comparatively, the time was impressive but brought a letdown to the 10,000 or so fans gathered in Memorial Coliseum. Just a week ago the lanky farm lad from Kansas ran the mile in 4:00.6.

Any dream of approaching Roger Bannister's record 3:59.4 began to fade when Santee began to lag in the drive down the final 100 yards to the tape.

Just as the 4-minute goal blew up, so did the heralded duel between Santee and the European champion, Barthel's famed finishing kick failed to explode and Santee quickly raced far ahead.

"I thought the track was a finishing heavy. I always thought I could beat Barthel, although I knew he would be tough," said Santee.

"I was running first to win and secondly for the record," Santee continued. "I knew Barthel had a great kick but I didn't think it was better than mine."

Barthel, tired and breathing rather heavily, merely said: "It's too early for me to run my best race."

Barthel has just completed studies in engineering at Harvard and this was his first real competition of the year outdoors. It was only the third time in his life that he has been beaten at a mile or his favorite event, 1,500 meters.

Santee, who may have run his last race of the season—he goes into summer training with the Marine Corps next Monday—was unofficially timed on his individual laps in 59.5, 60.0, 60.5 and 60.7.

O'Brien sent the crowd into a roar when he threw 60-6 on his fourth try, thus eclipsing his previous best of 60-5 1/4, set at this same coliseum site earlier this year. His accepted world record, set in 1953, is 59-2 1/4.

He started his 60-foot string Friday night with 60-5 1/2 on his third throw. His fifth was 60 feet 1/2 inch and then he let loose his greatest throw.

The handsome ex-University of Southern California star, now competing for the Los Angeles Athletic Club, has broken his own accepted mark in six meets so far this year, and is pointing for even greater distances in the national AAU championships at St. Louis next week.

He made his 60-10 mark on his sixth and final toss.

Still in his sweat suit, with no official warmups, O'Brien started off by tossing the 16-pound ball 57 feet 3 inches.

From Santa Monica, Calif., O'Brien weighs 225 pounds and stands 6 feet 2 inches.

Santee's time was the third fastest in history but still just back of his time of 4:00.6 recorded a week ago at Compton, Calif.

The night was chilly. A crowd estimated at 10,000 gave the runners a roar of encouragement.

The time at 1320 yards was 3 minutes flat, and it appeared Santee or Barthel might hit the magic 4-minute mile.

Santee opened up a sudden burst of speed 220 yards from the finish and left the little Olympic champion far behind.

But just as a week ago, 22-year-old Wes seemed to tie up about 100 yards from the finish.

He was clocked officially at 3:43.6 for the 1,500 meters as compared to his 3:42.8 for the same distance last week.

Bjorn Bogerud of Norway was third and Sture Landqvist of Sweden fourth in the race. Neither was ever a strong threat and the finish of neither was caught by the timers.

A fifth and added starter, Paul Carlin, a half miler from Wyoming, set a fast early pace but dropped out of contention at the end of 880 yards.

The race was clocked at 59.3 for the first quarter, 1:59.4 for the 880, 3:00 for the three-quarters and 4:00.7 for the four laps.

Carlin hit off the pace quickly, with 27-year-old Barthel and Santee trailing just a stride or so behind in that order.

The race was run in much this fashion until well past the 880-yard mark. Landqvist made one rush to the lead, and then Santee and Barthel took over.

Barthel took a two-stride lead as they entered the final lap, but midway down the back stretch Santee pulled abreast and they raced head and head for a few steps.

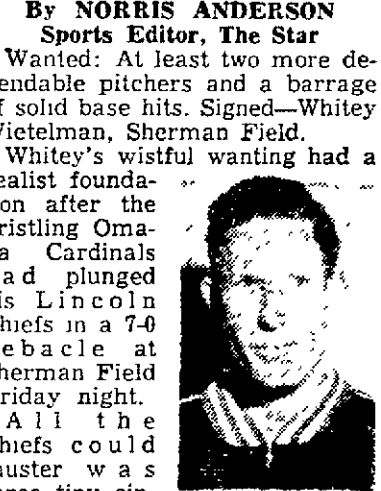

Then Santee let loose with his finishing kick, only to have it die out in the final phases.

Brown Faces Omaha Tonight

Card's 3-Hitter Stops Chiefs, 7-0

Norm Brown

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

Wanted: At least two more dependable pitchers and a barrage of solid base hits. Signed—Whitey Wietelmann, Sherman Field.

Whitey's wistful wanting had a realist foundation.

After the Cardinals had plucked his Lincoln Chiefs in a 7-0 debacle at Sherman Field Friday night.

All the Chiefs could muster was three tiny singles off southpaw Millard Heim, who became a man of distinction this dark evening. A lefty with rare control, Mister Heim is the second pitcher to shut out the Chiefs in 54 games played thus far.

The Chiefs slipped to third place, 3 1/2 games behind Denver and only four percentage points behind the Cardinals. Des Moines' seven-game victory streak was tampered by an 8-8 tie with Sioux City when rain halted the game.

In pocketing two straight games, Omaha has now blanked the Chiefs for 16 straight innings. Along with a shake-up of his artillery, Wietelmann will toss his winner, own 16 of Lincoln's 30 wins. Roger Wright (4-4) has been valuable in relief.

Remove that trio and you have Vance Carlson (3-1), Tom Keating (1-2), Herb Grissom (1-1) and Noel Oquendo (0-1). They all have yet to prove their spot on the Chiefs' roster.

It was Grissom, 6-foot 3-inch righthander, who was shelled by Omaha Friday night.

The Cards started with a solo run in the second on a walk and singles by Manager Farrell Anderson and Whitey Ries. Three unearned runs materialized in the fourth on a pair of walks, a boot by Jack Concannon and a sacrifice.

Grissom's 200 pounds were pelted by a warm shower after he yielded a single by Barney Elser and a single by Jim (Kong) King for two runs in the seventh. His successor, Vance Carlson then proceeded to dish up another right-field homer to Al Votto.

Lincoln's only threats were quelled by spectacular Card double plays in the second and third. After that, the Chiefs got only one hit off Heim's cagey slants and succumbed in order in the final four frames.

Wigwam notes... Bush's nine straight wins ties the modern Western League record held by Vern Fear, Des Moines (1950), and Hank Williams, Denver (1948)... The all-time mark is 17 straight, set in 1934 by Frank Lamanski, Davenport... Denver (1948)... Heavy clouds cut the crowd down... Even in sorrow, the Chiefs managed to come up with three electrifying plays—

(1) Hancock's leaping stab of King's brisk liner in the fifth which led to a double play,

(2) Johnny Jones' retrieve of a wild toss in the seventh and

(3) Orinthal Anderson's sprinting grab and throw of a teasing liner in the eighth... Skipper Anderson takes no chances of the umpires' expelling his players... He gets irate players off the umpire's neck in a hurry, as witness the case of Whitey Ries in the sixth... Who said lefties can't hit lefties?... Lincoln's three hits off Heim were by Anderson, Neill and Grissom, who all bat left-handed... Lincoln and Omaha are now tied for the season at 5-5... For the first time since early season, McQuillen dropped from the top of the Chiefs' hitting totem pole... Red's .332 now trails Walt Lin-

Strong-Finishing Jones Fails Stop Giardello

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Joey Giardello staved off a furious last round finish by Bobby Jones, the man the wise guys couldn't "fix" to win an unanimous decision in a thrilling 10-round match Friday night at Madison Square Garden. A chorus of boos greeted the verdict.

Giardello weighed 159 1/2.

Jones, who spurned an alleged $15,000 bribe offer by heavyweight Clarence Henry a week ago, went all out in a driving finish that didn't quite convince the judges.

The scores were the same on all three official cards. Judges Frank Forbes and Arlie Aldala and Referee Al Berli each voting 5-4 for the Philadelphia slugger who was upset by Firrre Langlois in his last fight, Mar 21. The AP card also was

The State Supreme Court Friday reversed an action by District Judge Harry D. Landis of Seward County in committing two youths to the Boys' Training School at Kearney for a definite length of time.

It was held that proper notice had not been given the parents of the accused. To this, Justice Edward F. Carter dissented on the grounds that the court journal entries show the fathers present. The majority opinion holds that because no record of testimony was taken and no summons served or process issued, the court is without authentic information on the proceedings further than the fixed sentence in the commitment.

Without parental advice the court held that "without that protection the state is not to be allowed to deprive a child of tender years could well become the victim of the merciless and depraved of the constitutional and traditional safeguards which are guaranteed to even society's most depraved adult."

The boys were accused in a petition filed by the county attorney of stealing gasoline and breaking into a school house and destroying property.

In their appeal fathers of the two boys said they brought the boys into court at the telephoned request of the sheriff. They admitted the charges but were not represented by counsel.

After the order of commitment at a conference of the judge and attorneys it was modified to provide for release the day before Christmas. Later the Supreme Court ruled that the trial court cannot limit time of commitment and the defendants sought a new trial.

"A child charged with delinquency is entitled to be proceeded against in the manner provided by statute and is entitled to the safeguards essential to a fair and impartial trial," the court held.

It has been the custom in some juvenile delinquency cases for courts to keep them informal, often with no defense attorney and no record of testimony taken.

Sen. Flanders Demands McCarthy Ouster As Committee Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) demanded that the Senate strip Sen. McCarthy of his investigative powers as a committee chairman until McCarthy purges himself of "contempt" by a "swearing" charges made against him in 1952.

Flanders

Before delivering this open challenge on the Senate floor, Flanders confronted the Wisconsin senator at the McCarthy-Army hearings and served written notice that he intended to make the address. It was Flanders' third speech against McCarthy in recent weeks.

McCarthy's first comment was, "I don't have enough interest in any Flanders speech to listen to it." Shown a copy of the address later, he remarked:

"I think they should get a man with a net and take him to a good quiet place."

Flanders Smiles

Flanders smiled when he heard about this and said, "Oh, he must think I'm a butterfly who ought to be carried to a quiet place."

In calling for McCarthy's ouster as chairman of the Government Operations Committee and its investigations subcommittee, Flanders asserted McCarthy is in contempt of "the whole Senate" because of his refusal to appear two years ago before a Senate group which investigated his finances and other activities.

"It is no defense to call the charges a 'smear,' the 73-year-old Vermont said. 'A smear is a most annoying thing and one which is perhaps (I would not speak definitely) not unknown to the junior senator from Wisconsin.'

"But there is this about a smear. It can be removed by a dry cleaning process which involves a vigorous application of the truth. That process the senator was unwilling to apply. The smear remains, of course."

Refers to Report

Flanders was harking back to the work of a three-man Senate subcommittee set up in 1952 to investigate charges against McCarthy by former Sen. Benton (D-Conn.) and countercharges made by the Wisconsin senator. The subcommittee was composed of Sens. Hennings (D-Mo), Hayden (D-Ariz.) and Hendrickson (R-N.J.).

The "charges" against McCarthy, Flanders said, "were summed up in six questions, which the committee worded as follows:

"Whether under the circumstances it was proper for Sen. McCarthy to receive $10,000 from the Lustron Corp. (for a booklet about housing).
"Whether funds supplied to Sen. McCarthy to fight communism or for other specific purposes were diverted to his own use.

"Whether Sen. McCarthy used close associates and members of his family to secret receipts, income, commodity and stock speculation and other financial transactions for ulterior motives.

"Special Interest Groups"
"Whether Sen. McCarthy's activities on behalf of certain special interest groups, such as housing, sugar and China were motivated by self-interest.

"Whether loan or other transactions Sen. McCarthy had with Appleton (Wis.) State Bank or others involved violations of the tax and banking laws.

"Whether Sen. McCarthy violated federal and state corrupt practice acts in connection with his 1944-46 senatorial campaigns or in connection with his dealings with Ray Kiermas (McCarthy's administrative assistant)."

About 40 of the 96 senators (not including McCarthy) were in the Senate when Flanders delivered his brief speech. There was only one interruption: No senator said anything to Flanders after he finished his speech.

More Fireworks

There was a good deal more fireworks when the Vermont strolled into the glaring lights of the McCarthy-Army hearing to notify McCarthy of the speech and invite him to be present for a reply if he wished.

With the air of a man crossing Times Square against traffic, Flanders entered the jam-packed hearing room and asked a Senate employee:

"Where is the junior senator from Wisconsin—I mean McCarthy?"

When the Senator was pointed out, Flanders exclaimed, "There he is!" then walked over and handed him the notice. For a moment McCarthy appeared dumbfounded.

Then, as Flanders appeared about to retire, McCarthy shouted that he remain and, if he had any information about the McCarthy-Army row, "take the oath, raise your right hand."

If Flanders had "nothing except the usual smears," McCarthy went on, he should air them there and not on the Senate floor.

"We can't have this feuding," objected Sen. Mundt (R-SD), chairman of the hearing.

McCarthy snapped that he wasn't feuding. He also said he thought a critical speech Flanders made about him last week was "not the result of viciousness, but because of senility."

Flanders stood gazing stonily at McCarthy until Mundt instructed him to go back among the spectators.

"I retire under compulsion," Flanders said softly as he turned to go.

Back in the Senate, Flanders quoted from the report of the subcommittee on privileges and elections to show that McCarthy turned down an opportunity to appear before it and testify.

Flanders said from this it is clear that McCarthy stood in contempt of the Senate.

Flanders then sent to the desk his ouster motion. The motion read, "It is moved that Sen. McCarthy be separated from the chairmanship of the Senate Committee on Government Operations and furthermore be prohibited from being chairman or vice chairman of any subcommittee thereof."

Pop Of Chapman Becomes A 'Pop'

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Here's a story of a Pop that became a pop.

Myron Pop of Chapman became a proud Pop when his wife presented him with a brand new baby boy at the Lutheran Hospital in Grand Island.

Flanders told the Senate he intended to have the motion lie on the desk until McCarthy has been given sufficient time "to purge himself of contempt by answering specifically and in detail the charges in the numerous questions which I have read."
